

ULM, COMPANIONS LOST AT SEA AS FUEL GIVES OUT

START HUNT TO FIND TRIO WHEN MESSAGE HEARD

Believe Fliers To Be Near Hawaii After Pacific Flight

By William H. Ewing.
(Copyright, 1934, by the Associated Press.)

Honolulu, Dec. 4.—(P)—A patrol plane roared in wide circles tonight above 23 navy searching craft and scores of Japanese fishing sampans as darkness gathered over water where Flight Lieutenant Charles T. P. Ulm's Honolulu-bound monoplane dropped when its fuel gave out.

Meanwhile, the liner President Coolidge reported arrival at the spot where the plane and its three passengers were believed to have touched the sea. No trace could be found of the missing fliers whose frantic message "Will land in the sea" urged rescuers on.

Added hope the men, en route here on the first leg of an air dash to Australia, might be found close in offers aid by the Japanese fishing fleet. Nightly these craft put to sea for cruises taking them several hundred miles out.

Searchers did not know exactly where to look but they believed Ulm and his companions, Co-Pilot George Littlejohn and Navigator-Radio Operator J. L. Skilling might be drifting within 200 miles of Oahu Island, on which Honolulu is situated.

The far-flung naval search was carried on by 18 submarines, the light mine layers, the coast guard cutter, and the coast guard patrol boat Tiger.

Rear Admiral Harry E. Yarnell, commandant of Pearl harbor naval station, Admiral Sinclair Gannon, commander of the submarine base, and Commander E. W. Todd of the fleet air base at Pearl harbor were directing a co-ordinated search.

Late today the patrol planes were ordered to return to their bases by 7 or 8 p. m. (1:20 p. m. to 12:30 a. m., Wednesday, Central standard time), but the surface craft will spray the darkness all night with searchlights, hoping to locate the fliers or see their distress flares.

On every island of the Archipelago a lookout was kept by local authorities and newspapermen on the possibility the plane "Star of Australia" might be washed ashore.

Searching craft were covering an area within a radius of 300 miles from Oahu because it was not known whether the missing plane had overshot its goal or fallen short on the flight to chart a commercial flying venture.

Realizing their approaching peril, Lieutenant Ulm sent a constant stream of messages from his plane seeking immediate assistance, as he watched the gas gauges showing his dwindling supply of fuel.

"We have very little gasoline left," said a message from the plane. "We need the beacon urgently. We do not want to give the S. O. S. Please shake them on the beacon."

This was interpreted by fliers here as indicating Lieutenant Ulm was far off his course and could not pick up the beacon direction signals, which were being broadcast constantly.

STATE COLLEGE OF IOWA SHOWS KING OF STEERS

"Campus Idol" Named Grand Champ Of Chicago Show

By Harold K. Milks
Associated Press Staff Writer.
Chicago, Dec. 4.—(P)—The brief reign of a grand champion steer at the international Livestock Exposition began today for "Campus Idol," a 1140 pound Aberdeen-Angus owned by the Iowa State College at Ames.

Tonight "Campus Idol" was the pride of Iowa and the king of 800 prize steers at the exposition. Thursday it will go to the auction block—the way of all grand champions under regulations of the show—to end up as baby beef in some hotel or restaurant.

Sharing the honors held by "Campus Idol" was "Kiron," a second glen-black Aberdeen-Angus, named by Judge Walter Biggar of Scotland, as reserve grand champion.

Nineteen months old to a day, the new champion and his stable-mate were raised at Ames for use of students of the college in farm management and judging classes. Prof. P. S. Shearer, head of the Iowa school's animal husbandry department, said:

"The showing of the two animals was only incidental to their regular use in classes at the college," Shearer said. "They and the other 16 animals entered here are a part of our regular college herd."

The naming of the grand champion steer left but one major title of the 1934 exposition unclaimed—the corn crown. Judges checking methodically over the long ears packed with plump yellow kernels in the third-floor hall of grain announced they would crown a corn king tomorrow.

At first he refused to eat. Slowly and cautiously he made friends with a few sisters and nurses, but still maintains a sullenness toward all but a few. He is 12 years old.

SEEK TO BRING PRIVATE FUNDS OUT OF HIDING

Hope To Start Flow Of Capital Into Housing Work

Washington, Dec. 4.—(P)—A direct government gift of one fifth of the cost of building homes for individuals was proposed today in high administration quarters as a method of opening a four billion dollar tap of private spending.

The plan called for the use of a billion dollars of federal funds in an effort to bring four times that amount of private capital into construction totalling five billion dollars. The government, through loans insured by the housing administration, would stimulate both the desire to borrow and lend.

The program was put forward in the effort to find a middle path between public and private building operations. There was no immediate official comment from either housing or relief administrators. If such a plan were adopted, it would be administered by the housing administration, but the officials of all emergency agencies have been endeavoring to devise means of getting more persons to work and off relief rolls.

An example of the way the proposed plan would work follows:

A man owns a $500 lot. He wants to build a $5,000 home. The housing administration investigates. After its approval, the government advances twenty per cent of the $5,000, or $1,000. The owner borrows the remainder from a bank or other private lending agency, the loan being insured by the housing administration. The government gift, however, would not be figured into the cost of the house for loan purposes. By adding the value of the lot and $4,000, the borrower would be able to obtain an insured loan of 80 per cent of $4,500, or $3,600. He would be required to put up the remaining $400.

This was interpreted by fliers here as indicating Lieutenant Ulm was far off his course and could not pick up the beacon direction signals, which were being broadcast constantly.

Realizing their approaching peril, Lieutenant Ulm sent a constant stream of messages from his plane seeking immediate assistance, as he watched the gas gauges showing his dwindling supply of fuel.

Arms Makers Had Aid Of Government, Claim

Senate Probers Told Of Successful And United Effort Made To Modify The Restrict- ions On Arms Trade

By Richard L. Turner
Associated Press Staff Writer
Washington, Dec. 4.—(P)—A successful concerted effort by gunmakers the world over, with the active assistance of American officials, to modify the 1925 Geneva convention for the control of international arms shipments was revealed today before the Senate Munitions committee.

Evidence was presented that Herbert Hoover, then secretary of commerce, interested himself to the extent of assembling American arms makers to receive their views.

At about the same time, in 1925, the man who became president was said to have arranged a meeting between the gun makers and a group of state department officials and several of the delegates to the Geneva Arms Conference of that year.

The gun makers had, too, the active help of John Q. Tilson, then a representative from Connecticut and the majority leader in the House. It was testified that he aided the munitions men to meet state department officials and wrote them that he had pleaded their case with the late Senator Burton of Ohio, chairman of the American delegation to the Geneva conference.

In addition, Tilson served as a technical advisor to the delegation. The arms manufacturers were so appreciative of his efforts on their behalf, in fact, that an official of the Winchester Arms company broached the idea that he become secretary of war in case secretary Weeks should not recover from an illness then afflicting him.

The meeting with Hoover and with some of the delegates was described in a memorandum drawn up by Major Aiken Simons, a Dupont official. It said:

"On the morning of April 14, the executive committee of the manufacturers met and drew up their final report which was presented at a meeting held that afternoon, presided over by Mr. Hoover and attended by Admiral Long, General Guggenbuhl, (delegates) Major Strong, Mr. Dulles (also a delegate) and Mr. Martiner, (a high official of the state department), Mr. Doumeratzky and Mr. Headland, both of the department of commerce, and the executive committee of Messrs. Harrington (all connected with the Beebe, Simons, Nichols, Rierson and industry)."

The memorandum quoted Hoover as telling the manufacturers that "due to the representations made by the war department, the navy department and the manufacturers' committee, the United States delegates would make reservations on the proposed draft which would render it harmless to American interests."

The memorandum also stated that the gun makers had, too, the active help of John Q. Tilson, then a representative from Connecticut and the majority leader in the House. WIDOW OF "BABY FACE" NELSON NABBED LAST WEEK, AGENTS REVEAL

STUDENT GROUP SAYS KINGFISH CURSED EDITOR

Long Beseet With Host Of Troubles Over L. S. U. Tangle

Baton Rouge, La., Dec. 4.—(P)—Senator Huey P. Long today was beset with a range of troubles at Louisiana State University where the football team has been his idol.

He was accused in affidavits by a group of warring students of journalism of cursing and threatening to "fire" Jesse H. Cutler, editor of the "Reveille," the college campus official publication, for printing a letter criticizing Long's campus burlesque over a football player. He also was accused of threatening to remove the student who contributed the letter.

In addition, Dr. James M. Smith, president of LSU, was accused by Cutler of "pointing out that he would fire me, my staff, destroy the school of journalism and fire 4,000 students before he would offend the Senator" by letting the Reveille publish criticisms.

Cutler said that while he was in conference with President Smith and others discussing the censorship of the paper Dr. Smith told him "these are abnormal times" and that Senator Long was "virtually dictator of the University."

McGuire charged that Long violently cursed Cutler's management of the paper, said he would get another editor, declared he would fire Duane R. Norman, the student who contributed the letter, and stopped the press and had the letter thrown out.

Thereupon, McGuire declared, Miss Helen Gilkison, a newspaper woman of Baton Rouge, was stationed at the paper with the statement that she was to act as censor at $150 a month with authority from Senator Long "to fire and hire any Reveille staff member and that she was to read every line of copy that appeared in the paper."

The report from San Salvador said the Honduran village of Santa Ana in the Copan area also was destroyed, while several houses were flattened and others damaged in La Esperanza.

Other cities hard hit were Gracias and Naranjito, in the western section of the country, the colonial town of Ilima and the city of Comayagua, only 60 miles from Tegucigalpa.

Everywhere, the reports indicated the earth tremors spread panic among the populace. A curious accompaniment to the rocking of the earth at Comayagua was the night-long ringing of the church bells, which sounded without human help.

The officials returning him to his Maryland cell missed an early afternoon train they planned to take and were expected to board a Baltimore and Ohio train tonight (9:10 P. M.).

Hart was turned over to J. Bernard Wells, state's attorney elect from Baltimore, after the officials conferred with authorities at Springfield.

Railway officials, however, denied knowledge of the presence of the four aboard the train and at the penitentiary a rigid censorship was clamped down, apparently at Wells' request, concerning the movements of the prisoner.

Chicago, Dec. 4.—(P)—Jack Hart, alias Red Kelly, escaped Maryland life convict, late today was given into custody of Maryland officials and speeded away from the Stateville prison at Joliet for a heavily guarded journey to the east.

Farmer Finds Well Picks Up Any Kind Of Radio Programs

Edmonton, Alta., Dec. 4.—(P)—From Farmer Ben Robert's well in the redwater section came the voices of crooners, the music of dance orchestras, beauty talks and fashion gossip.

Robert went to his well one recent frosty day to draw his morning pail of water. Instead he drew the strains of an orchestra, its tones pure and clear.

Why the well picks up the radio broadcasts, from stations near and far, has not been satisfactorily explained, but Robert has his ground wire to the well cribbing.

EARTHQUAKE IN LATIN AMERICA RAZES 3 TOWNS

Think Heavy Tremors May Have Caused Many Deaths

Tegucigalpa, Honduras, Dec. 4.—(P)—Meager reports reaching Tegucigalpa through shattered communications systems today indicated an earthquake in central Honduras had done widespread damage.

Three towns, official reports from Sinuapa said, probably were destroyed, while at least six others suffered serious damage.

There was no indication as to how many of the 6,500 persons living in the three towns reported destroyed—San Jorge, population 2,000, La Encarnacion, 3,000, and San Fernando, 500—lost their lives or suffered injury.

The report from Sinuapa, new capital of the Ocotepaque department, gave no details of the disaster and government officials tonight were striving to secure further information.

It was believed the earth shock was the same one felt in Tegucigalpa day before yesterday.

A report from San Salvador said the Honduran village of Santa Ana in the Copan area also was destroyed, while several houses were flattened and others damaged in La Esperanza.

Other cities hard hit were Gracias and Naranjito, in the western section of the country, the colonial town of Ilima and the city of Comayagua, only 60 miles from Tegucigalpa.

SECRETLY HELD IN CUSTODY FOR NEARLY 1 WEEK

May Face Charges Of Aiding In Slaying Of Two Officers

Washington, Dec. 4.—(P)—The possibility that a federal charge of "complicity in murder" might be placed against Mrs. Lester M. Gillis, widow of the late George (Baby Face) Nelson, was intimated tonight by Attorney General Cummings.

Offering no explanation of why Mrs. Gillis, arrested in Chicago Thursday, was held secretly until word leaked out today, Cummings did go on record for the first time as saying she had participated in the battle at Barrington, Ill., in which two federal agents were killed.

Puffing at a cigarette, he said the government is considering charging the woman with "complicity" in the murder. A number of other charges also are under consideration.

At a hurriedly summoned press conference, he declined to say whether the man who was present with the Nelsons at the Barrington foray had been identified or arrested.

"I have no statement on that," he said. "I can neither deny nor affirm. That doesn't mean anything at all."

Mrs. Gillis, a 34-year-old brunette, if prosecuted on the murder charge, will be the first person to be tried under a statute enacted by the last congress making the killing of a federal agent a federal offense.

Asked whether the woman had surrendered, Cummings suggested a better phrase would be "that she was picked up." He added that she had not asked for legal counsel or for bail.

"She has the status of an escaped person," he said.

He explained that she is wanted for violation of probation decrees by the federal district court for the western district of Wisconsin. Mrs. Gillis and two other girls, Marie Conforti and Jean Delaney, in April were charged with having harbored the late John Dillinger.

The women pleaded guilty and on May 25 were given 18 months sentences. The court suspended operation of the sentences, but placed them on probation. The trio had been arrested at Little Bohemia Lodge, Spider Lake, Wis., April 23, the day after Dillinger's band had shot their way through a cordon of federal agents.

Special Agent W. Carter Baum and a C. C. C. worker were killed in the skirmish.

Cummings said that Mrs. Gillis eventually would be returned to Wisconsin. He explained that the government also is considering prosecuting the woman for theft of government property and aiding a fugitive from justice to cross state lines.

He reminded newspapermen that after the shooting at Barrington, Nelson, his wife and the mysterious third member of the party took the department of justice automobile as a means of getaway. The machine was subsequently found at Winnetka, Ill.

Chicago, Dec. 4.—(P)—Premier Pierre-Emile Flaminio's government today took another step toward return to "normal commercial practices" in France.

The cabinet approved and sent to parliament, where speedy action is expected, the premier's plan to spend 1,500,000,000 francs (approximately $90,000,000) to dispose of surplus wheat.

A free market is the goal of the plan, which will set the French government out of wheat price-fixing as soon as the surplus wheat farmers grew in 1933 and 1934, under the stimulus of fixed prices, can be eliminated.

The bill is to be brought before the chamber of deputies for urgent action Dec. 10. Its immediate adoption was forecast.

Paris, Dec. 4.—(P)—Four jurors were sworn in today for the trial of the third of the Insull brothers, prosecution, Martin J. Insull, who is accused of embezzlement of $244,720.

A defense of no intent to defraud—the same offered by Samuel Insull, Sr., and his son, Samuel Jr., acquitted recently in a federal trial on charges of use of the mails to defraud—was foreshadowed.

Loans vs. Prosperity

The government's Import-Export bank, which is designed to extend credit to further foreign trade, has been doing some rather queer things. The story is told of a proposed loan of $100,000 to Brazil to finance the purchase of cotton-ginning machinery. The private bankers at first turned down the loan. Then the government bank promised to make it. The private money-lenders changed their minds and Uncle Sam was saved the embarrassment of making a loan that would have run counter to his own prosperity.

Brazil and other countries with semi-tropical climates are competing with our own south in the production and sale of cotton. It is hardly fair to ask American capital to support enterprises in foreign countries that would cut down the prosperity of our own land. Yet that is what the government proposed to do.

Doubtless millions of dollars of capital gathered in this country are financing many such schemes abroad. Money has no conscience and will go where it can get the best return. American reapers are working in Russian wheat fields to help harvest crops that compete with American grain. American machinery goes to foreign factories to help cheap labor turn out goods that crowd articles produced by American labor out of the market.

The world was shocked to learn that the armament trade is universal and is controlled by an international trust, that British guns carried by German soldiers were used to shoot down British soldiers during the world war, and that protection was accorded the armament factories of enemy countries.

What is true of armament is also true of food, clothing, machinery, or anything else in which trade will yield a profit. It is about time Americans who profess patriotism allowed that virtue to extend to their pocketbooks. American money should be used to finance American enterprises, and not to help foreign countries undersell the market and ruin American business.

Nine Miles Up

Wiley Post, who continues to perform remarkable feats of aviation, has been nine miles up in the stratosphere, rising to a height of 48,000 feet. He has circled the globe and taken the lead in more than one daring job of pioneering in the air. His work appears to equal that of Col. Lindbergh, the Post has not had as much public recognition as the Lone Eagle.

Post's latest performance almost cost him his life. At a great height his oxygen valve began to leak and he feared the escaping gas would burst the heated suit that protected him from the intense cold and the thin atmosphere.

But he managed to adjust the valve and continue his flight. He believes he has achieved a world record, but is not satisfied. He wants to go 10,000 feet higher next time.

Post is a courageous aviator and deserves high praise. His flight is only another link in the chain of events by which man, the groundling is slowly adapting himself to wings. Truly, "the sky is the limit," and Wiley Post will do his best to reach it in a heavier-than-air machine.

Demonstration Follies

Police clubs flew and beat a tattoo on communistic skulls in St. Louis recently when twenty demonstrators tried to force their way into the city hall to see the mayor. The police had stipulated that a committee of five could enter, but five were not enough to satisfy the communist desire to make an impression.

The folly of such demonstrations and knocking about of pates is apparent to every thinking citizen. What good would it do the Reds to see the mayor? Whatever demands they had to present would probably be too radical to be considered. Few people aside from those in sympathy with communism would be impressed by demonstrations. If carried too far such affairs result in riots that leave a bad taste in the mouth of the public and do not further the cause of the participants.

Before they tried to enter the city hall, the communists made speeches denouncing the police and the administration. The officer remarked that "we paid no attention, for we are used to that sort of thing." Even the verbal fireworks the Reds set off get them nowhere. The American people are peculiarly averse to hot words and mob action.

Public opinion changes slowly. It cannot be violently pushed into endorsement of political theories which are contradictory to the teachings of 150 years. Changes made in government are not as rapid as they may seem for the outwardly sudden, they usually have their roots deep in the political experience of the nation. There is nothing in the political or economic experience of the American people to make even a demonstration of communism effective.

VIEWS OF THE PRESS

WESTERN EUROPE AND AMERICA.

From The Monmouth Atlas

Walter Lippman, observer of world affairs, returns from several months in Europe, a news writer finds, "with dire forebodings." He is optimistic about America but dubious about the Old World. Europe, he thinks, is suffering from a growing organic disease.

He does not include Great Britain and the Scandinavian countries in his dark picture. Their governments are more stable, their economic conditions less serious. Otherwise—

"The Continent is still in the grip of a truly terrible deflation, which is paralyzing private initiative. It would be foolish to try to predict what will happen. There is a possibility of war. There is a possibility of widespread social disintegration."

America, while co-operating with other nations in all proper ways, and helping when she can, has to watch her step now more than ever. Our place in international relations is particularly alongside of Britain and those level-headed Scandinavian countries, with whose principles, institutions and blood we are most closely connected.

"The bonus infant has been dumped on the Roosevelt doorstep," says the Atlantic News-Telegraph. But it is not an infant any more. It is quite a rugged youth, capable of making lots of trouble for the President and Congress.—Webster City Freeman-Journal

Currents in the News

Wiley Post, noted around-the-world aviator, in an attempt to break the altitude record, believes he soared into the stratosphere above 48,000 feet. Experts after official examination of the instruments he carried will declare their findings before official announcement concerning the flight is made. He went high enough for the thermometer on the wing of his plane to register 70 degrees below zero. If Post had made this flight last July he might have had a passenger waiting list.

The city council gave consideration to the traffic problem as it affects the public square. To move the traffic without congestion and to afford the largest opportunity or parking facilities is the issue upon which opinion divides. Once again the question, how shall we get in, how shall we get out, how shall we park on the public square. Let's ask Santa Claus.

It appears likely that the Illinois Legislature will be urged to pass an automobile drivers license law when the session of the general assembly convenes in January. One of the plans proposed is for a fee of fifty cents good for three years. Over half of the states have such a law in operation. Several attempts to pass such a law in Illinois have been made but the measure has never mustered the required number of votes.

Some question seems to have arisen in regard to the legality of the election notice with reference to the $30,000,000 bond issue which carried at the recent election. It may require a decision of the supreme court before the bond sale can be consummated. This bond issue was for the purpose of funding unemployment relief expenditures and the complication that has arisen adds another problem to relief administration.

SO THEY SAY!

Social legislation has been gaining momentum in England for 30 years. In the United States it is just beginning to be considered seriously.

The New Deal in Washington

Armstrong, Unsung Hero of Public Health Service, Is Again Disease Victim in Cause of Science . . . Ickes Is Wise Old Trout, Dodging The Hook . . . Lush Time Looms for Lobbyists.

By Rodney Dutcher
Journal-Courier Washington Correspondent

Washington—If you can take your eyes away from the New Deal fireworks a moment, let's take our hats off to Dr. Charles Armstrong.

Armstrong is one of those government scientists. You seldom hear about those fellows, though some make tremendous contributions to scientific knowledge and public welfare. As a group, they usually get it in the neck when an economy wave comes along.

The only time you ever hear of Armstrong is when he is laid low with some dangerous disease. He spends his life monkeying with death in the laboratory of the United States Public Health Service.

This time it's probably encephalitis—"sleeping sickness." His health service comrades, studying his symptoms in the hospital as they work to save his life, aren't sure.

Armstrong—as one of the crew who rushed to St. Louis a little more than a year ago when the disease broke out there. Ever since, he has been working with the organs of encephalitis victims—and with rats and mice—in an attempt to isolate the germ to the point where it might be tamed.

So it could hardly be anything else. But the other USPHS physicians, some of whom also have contracted dread diseases before they conquered them, are puzzled by a rash on Armstrong's body which they never knew to accompany "sleeping sickness."

They speculate as to whether this may be some new form of it and, though expecting Armstrong to survive, pray that the after-effects won't unfit him for continuance of his work. He is 48 years old.

Beat Parrot Fever

Last time, it was psittacosis—"parrot fever." You may remember how scared everybody was in 1929.

Many died. Armstrong worked with flocks of parrots, shooting germs into them. In a bedlam of squawking, scratching, death, he discovered the parrot fever virus.

His assistant caught the disease and died. Armstrong and nine others in the laboratory nearly died. Just in time, they were treated with serum made from a convalescent patient's blood—and it worked.

Armstrong and other convalescent patients were bled for more serum. That, along with Armstrong's subsequent achievements, licked parrot fever in the United States. Two years ago, when Mrs. Borah caught parrot fever in Idaho, they bled Armstrong again and rushed the serum by airplane to save her.

Now they're bleeding Armstrong again and shooting his blood into rats in the effort to learn what the matter with him.

Just Wise Old Trout

Secretary Ickes has a new description for himself. After he and Housing Administrator Moffat had been spanked by Uncle Roosevelt for what seemed like a public row between them over housing, Ickes counseled correspondents for sensationalizing his "philosophizing."

"You didn't call it that last week," somebody said.

"I'm calling it that now!" Ickes snapped back.

Then someone asked a leading question and Ickes grinned:

"I'm too old to bite on that one. I'm just a speckled trout."

Fie, Fie Harold

"Honest Harold," who insisted on keeping graft out of PWA, is considered the grimmest foe of the lobbyists. But he was a star guest the other night at a tea party at the home of J. Bruce Kremer, the handsomest, suave, and perhaps the most successful lobbyist in town. The party was given for Mrs. Wilmarth Ickes, the secretary's daughter-in-law.

Not long ago, Ickes was telling certain PWA employees they'd better stop letting themselves be entertained by persons seeking favors from PWA.

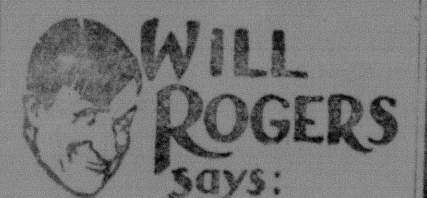

Lush Time For Lobbyists

Reports that Father Coughlin would spend much of his winter lobbying on Capitol Hill for his Social Justice Union, for which he expects to recruit 5,000,000 members, appear to be the bunk.

He advises your correspondent that he will be here very little.

Nevertheless, every other indication points to the next session of Congress as the biggest season for lobbyists this town has ever seen. And that's saying plenty!

To the Editor of The Journal-Courier:
Beverly Hills, Calif.—Ireland rioted in the movie theaters when they showed pictures of the wedding of the Duke and Marina. When that Ireland don't like anything, they don't even like the picture of it. Well they missed seeing a mighty pretty couple.

Our own Wiley Post went up to break the altitude record, he drifted from Bartlesville, Okla., to Muskogee, went square dab over Claremore. He was up ten miles, just high enough to clear the buildings.

In case any of you happen to be keeping statistics on it, Japan issued another ultimatum, to the world yesterday.

They ought to know—

MANY men of the South have been "in tobacco" for years—growing tobacco and curing it—buying it and selling it—until they know tobacco from A to Izzard.

Now folks who have been in tobacco all their lives, folks who grow it, know there is no substitute for mild ripe tobacco.

And down in the South where they grow tobacco and where they ought to know something about it—in most places Chesterfield is the largest-selling cigarette.

"Shoes of the Hour"

This New "Rub" is Safe for Baby

(A WELCOME DISCOVERY)

A new and powerful "rub" that begins its work in ten seconds!

Its vapor is volatile, and spreads rapidly through the cold area, even down into the bronchial tubes.

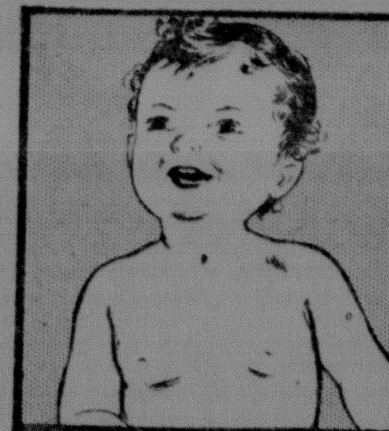

Yet so perfectly harmless you may use it on the baby.

This new penetrant will often relieve head colds in a few moments. A chest cold overnight. Or once an irritated throat like no spray or gargle you ever tried. Fine Balm gives you an entirely new weapon for fighting colds. It is not a mere surface rub that brings a temporary sensation of warmth. It is not another ointment whose vapors merely reach the head. This volatile rub reaches the air passages; penetrates to the spots where colds settle.

TO PARENTS:

Give your children the advantage of this new and more effective way of treating colds.

Pine Balm is a real discovery and is regarded a distinct step forward in the treatment of colds. Reports of its efficacy in many cases are most gratifying. It is getting amazing results for adults, with colds of various types. It is especially useful in treating the child whose stomach is easily affected by internal medicines. Because children are so frequently upset by dosing, none should be without this new and more effective cold relief.

Local druggists have been supplied. Get the name right, and get the right preparation: ask for Dr. Caldwell Pine Balm.

Talent Discovery Program Thursday

A talent discovery program, under auspices of the Country Life Insurance Co., will be given at the Auto Inn at 7 o'clock Thursday evening, Dec. 6. Already many entries have been received. The members of the Farm Bureau and their families living at home are entitled to participate. There is no admission charge.

Talent can be entered for instrumental and vocal solos, quartettes, or choruses of not more than five pieces. Novelty acts and one-act plays. Each performance cannot exceed six minutes in length.

The five winners on the program will participate in a lyric program later in the winter. They will also receive silver medals. The contest is state wide, and the talent making the highest score in the state will be awarded gold medals.

The score card on which the entertainers will be rated is as follows: Poise, 10 credits; personality, 10; initiative, or originality, 10; amateur standing, 20; audibility, 10; reception, 20; rendition, 10; talent and knowledge of art, 10 credits. On each one of the above points the judges will score from 1 to 10, or 1 to 20, as the case may be, and add the totals. Those closest to 100 will be the winners.

If the competition is close, half points may be used in scoring, but the total in no case must exceed 100 points. A penalty of 20 points, under the head of "amateur standing," will go against any professional who has received money for his or her services; in other words, a professional is permitted to compete, but would receive zero under the heading of "amateur standing."

juice and rind. Add butter. Cool.
Good for cake, tarts or pies.

Orange Filling

1 cup orange juice
2 teaspoons orange rind
1 cup sugar
4 1/2 tablespoons flour
1 egg yolk
1 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons butter
Bring orange juice to boiling point.
Mix sugar and flour well and slowly stir in the orange juice. Return to double boiler and cook, stirring constantly until thick, then occasionally until done.

Beat egg yolk and salt, and stir the hot mixture into the egg, then return to double boiler and stir a few moments until egg thickens.

Remove from heat and add butter and orange rind. Cool.

Good for cake or tart filling—for pies, increase flour to 4 tablespoons.

Dried Fruit Fillings

These cake fillings also make delicious fillings for tarts and lattice-top pies.

1. Put dried fruits—pitted dates, chopped figs, raisins, or soaked dried apricots—in double boiler with a little water and sugar to sweeten. Cook, stirring occasionally until thick enough to spread without running on cake.

Remove from heat and add a little lemon juice to sharpen flavor. (A little grated rind may be stewed with the fruit.)

2. Dates, Figs or Raisins—1 pound of the fruit, chopped, cooked with 1 cup sugar, 1-3 cup boiling water and 1 tablespoon lemon juice, until thick.

Apricot—Soak 1 pound well-washed dried apricots in 1 cup warm water over night. Next morning, add 1 cup sugar; cook until very tender. Press through sieve. If too thin, cook and stir till thickened. May be used as filling, also over top of cake—very luscious if topped with sweetened whipped cream flavored with a few drops almond extract. Or pipe whipped cream around as a border on apricots.

Jelly, Jam, Conserve Fillings—Any thick jam, jelly or conserve makes a good filling. Chopped nuts, raisins, coconut, may be added.

Note—In Lesson 12, there will be a whipped cream recipe with gelatin in it, for a filling that will "stand up" better than whipped cream alone—the "Vanilla Charlotte." Any of the Charlotte or Bavarian Creams make delicious cake fillings, particularly for delicate cakes. Spread filling on cold cake just after folding in the whipped cream, and let stand until firm before putting upper layer of cake on it.

For the Ordinary Whipped Cream Filling

1 cup heavy cream
1/2 cup fruit sugar
1 egg white
1 teaspoon vanilla
Beat cream stiff, add sugar and stiffly beaten egg white. Flavor with vanilla or other extract.

Suggested Variations

1. Add 1/2 cup candied cherries or 1 cup chopped dates, figs or raisins or a mixture.

2. Add thin slices of candied ginger or lemon.

3. Add 1 cup well drained canned strawberries or raspberries to whipped cream filling.

4. Add mashed peach or apricot pulp, and use almond extract instead of vanilla.

Note—With the fresh fruits, increase sugar to 1-3 cup.

Uncooked Meringue Filling

3 egg whites
1/2 cup fine sugar
4 tablespoons shredded candied citron
4 tablespoons chopped raisins
1 pound of chopped figs
1 cup chopped almonds Beat whites to a stiff froth, then beat in sugar gradually. Fold in fruit and nuts.
This filling should be used the day it is made.

Lady Baltimore Filling

Baked icing or 7 minute icing should be made in double quantity for Lady Baltimore Cake. To half of the icing, add 1-3 cup chopped raisins, 1-3 cup chopped cherries and 1-3 cup chopped nuts (pecans, walnuts, almonds or Brazil nuts). Spread this filling between the layers of any good light cake, and cover with the plain frosting.

Frostings belong to two main groups —those which are cooked and those which are not cooked.

1. Cooked Frostings—(a) The so-called Boiled Frosting—a sugar and water syrup poured and beaten into stiffly beaten egg whites; the White Mountain Frosting (the same but with a larger proportion of egg white); and the Seven Minute Frosting, for which all ingredients are put together in the double boiler, and cooked under constant beating.

(b) The creamy, fudge-like mixtures
—any of the candy recipes like maple cream, fudge, divinity fudge, kept a little softer so that they will spread.

2. Uncooked Frostings.

Note—Always roll lumps out of icing sugar and sift it.

(a) Plain Confectioners' Icing—liquid, icing sugar and flavoring.

(b) Butter Icing—well creamed butter, liquid, icing sugar and flavoring.

(c) Ornamental Frosting—unbeaten egg white, icing sugar, lemon juice, beaten together until stiff.

(d) Egg Yolk Base—with icing sugar and fruit juices, pulp, chocolate, etc., added.

(e) Almond Icing—prepared almond icing can be bought in tins and, if necessary, softened with a little egg white or yolk. Real almond paste can be mixed with equal amounts of icing sugar (put through food chopper together) and blended with well-beaten egg yolks for a yellow icing, or with stiffly beaten whites for a white icing, to give required consistency. (Ornamental Frosting is used over the almond paste.)

Boiled Frosting

1 cup granulated sugar
1-3 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons light corn syrup
1 or 2 egg whites
1-3 cup boiling water
1-2 teaspoon vanilla (or other flavor).

Two egg whites makes a fluffier icing. Put the sugar, salt, boiling water and syrup over low heat in a saucepan and stir until sugar is dissolved; bring slowly to boiling point and cook without stirring until your thermometer registers exactly 240 degrees F.; if you have no thermometer, test by dipping a fork into the syrup and lifting it into the air; when right,

it will leave a long wavy hairlike thread as it drips from the tip of the fork; also, a little syrup dropped into cold water will form a soft ball. Remove from fire; beat the egg white until stiff. Pour the syrup very, very slowly over the egg white, beating constantly. If you want a firm, crisp frosting, begin to pour the syrup over the egg as soon as it stops bubbling; if you want a soft frosting, allow the syrup to cool considerably before pouring it over the beaten egg. Do not scrape the last syrup from the pan. Beat until the icing is of a consistency to spread. A wire beater and flat plate or platter are easiest to use for egg whites, and to beat in the syrup.

Note—1-8 teaspoon cream of tartar, sprinkled into the syrup when boiling down, may be used instead of the corn syrup to keep icing soft and fluffy.

A good frosting to keep on hand;
put in covered jar in refrigerator.

Seven-Minute Frosting

11-2 cups white sugar
2 unbeaten egg whites
3 tablespoons cold water
1 tablespoon light corn syrup.

Flavoring.

Put all but the flavoring into upper pan of double boiler and beat to blend well.

Place over lower pan containing rapidly boiling water and beat steady-ly with a Dover beater until icing will stand up in peaks when the Dover beater is lifted out—(usually 7 minutes).

Remove upper pan from heat, add flavoring and beat until right for spreading. When cool, pile roughly on top and sides of cake—use as filling, too, if desired.

This frosting should be allowed several hours to set.

Variations

Either the boiled frosting or the seven-minute frosting may be finished in many different ways.

Colored Frosting—Blend a little pure coloring paste or liquid into a small part of the icing, then mix gradually into the main part; this way, you can be sure to keep it pale enough to be tempting. The egg-white may be colored, for the boiled icing.

Banana Icing—Spread sliced bananas thickly over soft frosting, just before cake is to be served.

Chocolate Icing—Add one ounce or square of melted chocolate immediatly after adding syrup (in boiled frosting). Grate chocolate over 7-minute icing, and beat in lightly when cooked.

Coffee Icing—Use coffee infusion instead of water, as the liquid.

Caramel Icing—Use brown sugar instead of white.

Maple Icing—Use 1/2 pound grated maple sugar to replace the sugar. Or flavor the cooked icing with maple flavoring.

Marshmallow—Add 8 marshmallows, cut in pieces, to syrup, just before beating it into egg whites, for boiled frosting. For 7-minute frosting, fold in, when frosting is cooked.

Orange Icing—Add grated yellow rind of one orange just after the syrup has been added to the egg, in a boiled icing—at end, in 7-minute frosting.

Chocolate Glaze—Put 2 squares chocolate over hot water and heat till melted.

Cool a little, keeping free from draughts, then streak over a thick layer of white icing—or pour it over the top and spread with a knife. Allow to cool slowly in moderate warm room, so chocolate won't turn gray.

Gelatin Icing—Soak 1 teaspoon gelatin in 2 teaspoons cold water 5 minutes, and dissolve in hot (boiled frosting). (This makes it certain that the icing will stand up.)

If Frosting Threatens Failure

If you have a saucepan thermometer to put in your saucepan, you can always make a boiled icing just right, but some times it is difficult to cook the sugar to exactly the right degree without a thermometer.

If boiled icing or 7-minute icing seems in danger of failure, you may rescue it:

(a) If too thin, stir in icing sugar to bring frosting to right consistency.

(b) If too hard, add a little hot water or soften it with a very little lemon juice, which will turn some of the sugar to glucose, with softening effect.

make a delicious creamy frosting, but instead of cooking to 238 degrees F., as for fudge, 234 degrees F. or just a little softer ball in cold water, makes a firm enough topping for cake.

Cook. Allow to become entirely cool before beating—this gives the thick, smooth, creamy texture you want, with no tendency to be sugary.

Chocolate Fudge Frosting
2 squares chocolate
1 cup sugar
1 tablespoon light corn syrup
1 tablespoon butter
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla.

Put all ingredients except vanilla together in an enameled pan, stir and bring rapidly to a boil, then cook without stirring to 234 degrees F. for frosting; 238 degrees F. for candy.

Cool; when cold, add vanilla and beat until smooth, creamy, of consistency to spread.

Maple Cream Frosting
2 cups brown sugar
2 tablespoons butter
1 cup milk
1/2 teaspoon vanilla.

Melt butter in saucepan; add sugar and top milk, stir until sugar is dissolved, then bring to boil rapidly and cook to 234 degrees F., without stirring or soft ball stage. When cold, add vanilla and stir and beat until thick enough to spread.

Variations
Chopped walnuts, coconut, chopped figs, dates or nuts may be added to either the chocolate fudge or maple cream icing—and a little maple flavoring may be used instead of vanilla, in the latter. (Use about 1 to 2-3 cup fruit or nuts.)

Cream Frosting
2 cups brown sugar
1 cup cream
1/2 cup milk
1/2 teaspoon vanilla.

Cook sugar, cream and salt to soft ball stage (234 degrees F.) Cook to lukewarm (110 degrees F.). Beat until thick and creamy. Add vanilla. Spread over cake and sprinkle thickly with chopped filberts or thinly sliced Brazil nuts.

Plain Confectioners' Frosting
Put into a bowl 2 table spoons liquid (milk, cream, fruit juice or strong coffee), sift in icing sugar until right consistency is spread; add flavoring. If the liquid is heated first, it will take the "raw" flavor from the sugar.

Fruit Frostings—Crushed, fresh berries, canned, crushed pineapple and juice or other fruit juice may be used as liquid; a little lemon juice improves their flavor. See flavors after Butter Icing recipes.

Butter Icing
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons liquid (cream, milk, fruit juice or strong coffee).
1 cup or more icing sugar.

Flavoring
Cream butter very light, blend in 2 tablespoons sifted sugar so that liquid will then blend in better; gradually add liquid, sift in icing sugar till stiff enough to spread and flavor. (Thorough beating gives a fluffier icing.)

Mocha or coffee flavor—use strong coffee infusion for liquid; 1 teaspoon cocoa may be added and a very little vanilla.

Chocolate—use milk or cream as liquid and add the hot liquid to 1-2 square chocolate (melted) or add 1-2 square chocolate cocoa to the sugar.

Whipped Cream—may be mixed with any butter icing, made rather stiff (except with fruit-juice flavoring).

Pineapple—use pineapple juice as liquid; add shredded pineapple, and a few drops of lemon juice.

Orange—use juice as liquid; add a little grated rind. An extra tablespoon of butter may be used. Or an egg yolk, raw, as part of the liquid, adds richness and improves the color.

Maple flavoring, any of the extracts such as almond, lemon, rose, etc., grated orange or lemon rind, caramel flavoring, etc., may be used to flavor either butter or confectioners' frosting.

Peanut Butter Frosting
1-2 tablespoons butter.
2 tablespoons peanut butter.
2 tablespoons icing sugar.
1-8 teaspoon salt.
2 teaspoons lemon juice.
2 teaspoons orange juice.
1 cup icing sugar (or enough to spread).

Cream butter and peanut butter together until very light; work in 2 tablespoons sugar, the salt, then the fruit juice (both kinds if you happen to have them). Gradually beat in the cupful of sugar.

I like the appearance given by dusting cinnamon over top of roughly iced cake.

To Decorate Cakes
Color—Pure vegetable coloring may be used to tint any white icing. Tint a small portion of icing delicately, then work into main part. For bold icing, tint the beaten egg. Keep all colors very delicate.

Nut Meats
Almonds (salted)—use chopped, silvered or halved.
Almonds (browned)—chop, silver or halve before browning. (Spread in thin layer in cake pan and brown in moderate oven, watching carefully.)
Brazilis—Silver lengthwise, use with or without browning.
Cashews—Salt after halving lengthwise.
Coconut—Use moist, soft, fine shreds.
Filberts—Halve, silver or chop coarsely.

Hazel Nuts—Chop coarsely.
Hickory—Chop coarsely.
Pecans—Use selected halves or chop coarsely.

Pistachios—Blanch, then chop.
Walnuts (English)—Use halves or chop coarsely.
Walnuts (Black)—Chop coarsely.
The above should be arranged or sprinkled generously over the icing before completely set.

Miscellaneous
Candied Rose or Violet Leaves—for "Special Occasion" cakes.
Candied Fruit Peel—Chop or silver.
Chocolate "Shot"—Sprinkle thickly over icing.
Chocolate—Melt over hot, not boiling.

AUTHORIZE ONE MORE TEACHER FOR NIGHT SCHOOL

Dr. R. O. Stoops, superintendent of the local schools, has been authorized to secure an additional teacher for the adult school program, it was announced yesterday. The new teacher will instruct a discussion group, the discussion to include current events, civics, etc.

There are already seven registrants and three more are needed to complete the class. Persons interested are urged to enroll.

Forty persons have enrolled for the night adult classes, but there is room for others. The classes are in English, speech, arithmetic and elementary business forms.

LOCAL PHYSICIANS
AT MEDICAL MEET

Dr. George L. Drennan and Dr. Carl E. Black attended the sixty-first annual meeting of the North Central Medical Association held at Mendota yesterday. During the evening Dr. Black and Dr. Drennan read a paper on "Some Phases of Surgery in Children."

This is one of the oldest district societies in Illinois and includes the following counties: Bureau, DeKalb, Kendall, LaSalle, Lee, Livingston, Marshall, Putnam, Whiteside and Woodford.

The meeting was an all day session held at the Elks club. A dinner was served at 6 o'clock at the Lutheran parish house. Following the dinner, the president, Dr. Homer A. Millard, addressed the group on "Prevention of Heart Disease." His talk was illustrated with lantern slides.

WINCHESTER MAN
HURT IN ACCIDENT

Leonard Lawson of Winchester received what is thought to be serious abdominal injuries while engaged at work on the paving of the route connecting Alsey and Winchester Tuesday afternoon. A Chevrolet sedan driven by one of the men employed on the project struck Lawson and the handle of the car door was thrust into his side. He was rushed to the office of Dr. Wm. O'Reilly at Winchester where first aid treatment was administered and was brought to Our Saviour's hospital. The extent of his injury has not yet been disclosed.

Two cases involving John Bain and his son, John H., and son-in-law, W. Merle Fischer, await the court's determination. One, a conspiracy charge, has yet to be ruled on; in the other case, which involved a charge of receiving deposits with knowledge that the West Englewood Bank and Trust company was insolvent, the three have already won a partial victory. The court, at its last term, reversed and remanded the case, giving them a new trial. The defendants, however, are seeking an outright reversal in the case and have asked the Supreme Court to rehear the issues.

The state has asked the court to reverse its decision holding Ernest J. Stevens, former official of the defunct Illinois Life Insurance company of Chicago, innocent of embezzlement.

Tomorrow members of the court and bar will hold a memorial service for the late Frederic DeYoung, a justice of the court who died since the last term.

Swear Out Warrant
for Wounded Negro

When Hubert Watts, negro, is able to leave the hospital where he is receiving treatment for a shotgun wound, he will be taken to the county jail. A warrant charging him with burglary and larceny has been sworn out in Justice A. B. Opperman's court by Fred Day, on whose farm Watts was wounded early Saturday morning.

Monday night a deputy sheriff remained near Watts' bed at Passavant hospital and Tuesday he was relieved by another officer. The negro is reported to be improving rapidly from a wound in his groin. He indicated that he was ready to go to his brother's home, but officers read him a warrant which will keep him in their custody for some time.

Watts was shot at the Day farm northeast of the city when members of the family heard an alarm from the barn. Several bushels of corn had been sacked up ready to carry away.

Important Cases to Be Reviewed During Supreme Court Meet

Springfield, Ill.—(AP)—The Supreme Court today opened its December term with a number of important cases, both civil and criminal, awaiting its decision.

Among the cases on which it is expected to rule this term is the appeal of Mrs. Gertrude Puhse and Thomas J. Lehne of Madison county, who were sentenced to be electrocuted for the murder of the woman's husband.

Another involves the convictions and 99 year sentences given Roger Touhy and several associates in the kidnaping of John F. Barker.

Addition Throop, former member of the St. Clair county board of review, is seeking freedom on the contention that he was not properly informed of the consequences of a plea of guilty he entered to an indictment charging him with illegally reducing tax assessments.

One hundred and eighteen cities and villages are party to a suit brought by a privately owned utility company which is contesting the right of the state to collect sales tax on the sales of water, gas and electricity. The municipalities also have a separate case in which the same question is at issue.

The appeal of Dr. Alice Wynkoop, convicted in Cook county of the murder of her daughter-in-law Rheta and sentenced to 25 years in the women's reformatory at Dwight, is also under consideration.

Mrs. Myrtle Tanner Blackledge of Chicago, former collector of internal revenue, is contesting the constitutionality of the Illinois debtors' law. She was sentenced to jail for failure to pay a judgment awarded the wife of a Chicago policeman for alienation of affections.

CURB MART ISSUES BECOME IRREGULAR

New York, Dec. 4.—(P)—Price movements on the curb exchange again followed an irregular course today. A number of specialties were firm, and narrow mixed prices prevailed among alcohols, oils and metals. Dealings were moderately active.

In the miscellaneous list, Babcock & Wilcox advanced another 2 points on top of its gain yesterday. A. O. Smith showed a similar appreciation. Pan American Airways Parke Davis and Technicolor got up about 1 point each.

Canadian Industrial Alcohol A lost a point, while Distillers Corporation-Seneca advanced fractionally. Hiram Walker improved a trifle.

Among power shares, Electric Bond & Share common ended about even, but the 5 per cent preferred dipped 2. National Power & Light preferred advanced more than a point. American Gas & Electric, on which an extra dividend of 20 cents was announced, gained 1.

Aluminum Company of America, International Petroleum, Pioneer Gold and Dow Chemical were a little lower. American Cyanamid R. Gulf Oil, Lake Shore, Swift & Co. Swift International, Creole Petroleum and Newmont ruled steady.

Transfers approximated 165,000 shares compared with 137,000 the previous day.

STOCK TRADE HAS BECOME BRIGHTER

By Frederick Gardner.

Associated Press Financial Writer.
New York, Dec. 4.—(P)—Livestock and more confident financial markets brightened today's trading and investment horizons.

In stocks the principal encouragement to proponents of the advance was given by a substantial recovery in the recently backward rails. U. S. government securities led another upturn in the bond division and commodities generally moved into higher territory. The dollars also maintained its ascending trend in foreign exchange dealings.

The day was a happy one for those who have been broadcasting the upturn in business and industry and predicting a further advance toward more prosperous times. There were a host of extra, special and regular dividends. Governmental analysts estimated Christmas buying would be the best since 1930 and increases of production in steel and electric power were foreseen by economic observers.

While many stocks failed to follow the example of the rails, aircrafts and scattered specialties, they at least held their ground. There were a number of moderate losses recorded, but these were not deemed of great importance by the majority of market commentators.

The Standard Statistics Co. average for 90 selected issues managed to regain seven-tenths of its one-point loss of the previous session. This composite closed at 75.4. Transfers totaled $59,950, or about 300,000 above yesterday's aggregate.

The share list was enlivened in the morning by a burst of activity in the aviation division. United Aircraft edged up to a new high for the year and Wright Aeronautical, Aviation Corp. and Boeing got up fractionally to around 2 points.

The flying corps did not hold its lead long. It was soon passed by the rails. Carrier gains of around 1 to 2 points included Santa Fe, N. Y. Central, Union Pacific, Northern Pacific, Great Northern, Delaware & Hudson and Pennsylvania.

Extra and special dividends were voted by J. C. Penney, General Printing Ink and International Printing Ink and these issues spurted about 2 points each. Some of the communication shares reflected optimism over the federal hearings on proposals to consolidate the telephone companies. American Telephone, Western Union, International Telephone and Postal Telegraph Preferred advanced fractionally to around 2 points.

Others, up as much, included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem Steel, U. S. Industrial Alcohol, Reynolds, Tobacco B, American Sugar Refining, Worthington Pump and Machinery, Worthington Pump Preferred A and E. Jumped about 3 and 2 points respectively. A number of other preferred issues brought much higher prices on small turnovers.

GRAINS RALLY TO TOP EARLY DROPS

By Franklin Mullin

Associated Press Market Writer
Chicago, Dec. 4.—(P)—A sharp rally in the grain market wiped out early losses in both wheat and corn today, advancing prices for net gains of fractions to more than a cent a bushel.

Buoyancy in the wheat pit was attributed to fresh indications of widespread and heavy feeding of this grain to livestock despite the fact that production of wheat as well as corn was far below normal this year.

Strength in securities also aided in improving sentiment and on the upturn reinstatement of lines sold out earlier and some short covering added to the weight of buying orders.

Profit taking on a week's gain of 4 cents in corn and 2 cents in wheat in addition to selling influenced by heavy deliveries on December contracts of wheat weakened the market considerably at the outset but the liquidation soon spent itself. Trade broadened toward the session's close.

Wheat closed near the day's top price, 1/2 to 1 cent higher than Monday's finish, May at $1.09-1/4. Corn was 1/2 to 1 cent higher, May 91-1/2, almost two cents above the day's low point. Oats and rye gained about a cent.

Much comment was heard regarding the probable amount of wheat likely to be fed this winter due to pronounced corn scarcity in many sections of the livestock producing area particularly where corn is the more expensive grain. According to a leading authority around 88,000,000 bushels of wheat might be consumed in this way compared with 75,000,000 last year.

Further arrivals of Canadian feed wheat are expected at late ports this week with Chicago and Milwaukee estimated to receive around 1,000,000 bushels.

The action of foreign markets was a disquieting feature. Liverpool closed 1/2 to 1 cent lower although that market was supported at times by reports of liberal sales of Australian wheat to the Orient and smaller Argentine offers. Steady commission house buying in Chicago in the final hour was believed partly due to unfavorable weather in Argentina. Deliveries on December wheat contracts totaled 1,872,000 bushels.

Private estimates of the winter crop had little influence. They indicated an increase of 4 1/2 to 6 per cent in the area seeded and a yield of 460,000,000 to 520,000,000 bushels compared with 460,000,000 bushels this year.

Corn advanced partly in sympathy with wheat action while some buying was inspired by heavy shipping sales, estimated at 20,000 bushels. Cash interest was as high as $1.00; was paid for good white corn in the sample market at Kansas City while the best cash price reached here was $1.03. A leading authority estimated disappearance of corn on farms to December 1 at 23.7 per cent of the crop compared with a normal of 17.2 per cent.

The headquarters of the Jackson Automobile club, which have been for several months at the Pacific hotel, have been transferred to the Auto Inn. The office will be handled by Mrs. Jacob Frisch. The telephone number will remain 1650 and those desiring information can get it 24 hours a day.

The club quarters were changed in order to insure this continuous service. T. M. Tomlinson, J. A. Long and R. E. Welch have been named members of an executive committee to handle the affairs of the club here. The appointments were made from the office of the Springfield Automobile Club.

S. G. Chumley and Frank H. Foote of this city have been awarded a PWA contract for the rebuilding and rehabilitation of the pumping plant in the Hartwell Drainage and Levee district near Hillville. The work will cost $35,600, this amount having been loaned by the federal government to the district.

R. L. Newton, a government engineer and inspector, will be on duty at the scene of operations.

The Hartwell drainage and levee district was hard hit by the flood two years ago, when large sections of the levees were swept away by flood water of the Illinois river. The pumping plant was badly damaged and has not been in operation since that time.

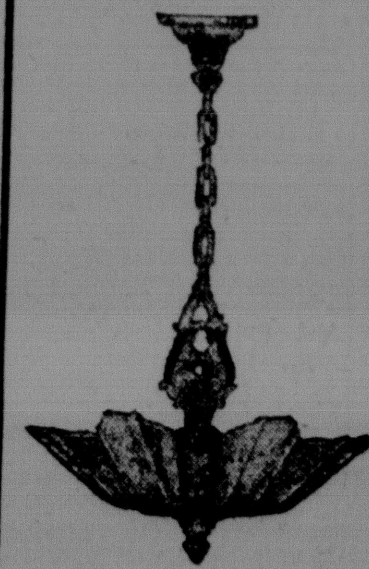

The district embraces more than 20,000 acres of rich bottom land, all protected by levees and dependent on the pumping station during time of high water. The plant is expected to be in condition to protect the spring crops this year.

PWA labor from the Hartwell district will be used in rebuilding the plant. An average of 20 men will be given employment for the next 5 or 6 months. Work on the levees also will furnish work for a number of men of the Hillview community.

BOARD WILL CONVENE

The Advisory Board of the Rev. James Caldwell Chapter D.A.R. will meet at the Chapter House Thursday morning at 9:30.

"BEACH BEAUTY" by ARTHUR SHUMWAY

CHAPTER XIX

His arms drew her firmly toward him, his dark eyes moved close to her own, and she felt his lips on hers. His kiss was long, hard, intense. She had been expecting it, yet it shocked her somehow. She had no idea what she should have done and it was too late. Gradually, firmly, she began to push him away, and she refused to let her own lips relax. She held them tight and tight. It was Harrow who eased the situation. He released her and stepped back, grasping her hand.

"That's how it is," he said. "You see? That's how it is."

"But you don't hate me?" he asked.

"No," she mumbled. "No, I don't hate you."

"That's enough, then. And that's all. I'll not annoy you, Kay. Especially because now I know."

"I could feel it—the resistance," "Oh," she said.

Harrow nodded and she saw his shrewd smile move faintly across his lips.

"If it could be different," he said, and paused. "Well... at least I've been frank. And you've been frank. And it doesn't change our relation at all. Except that maybe by tomorrow afternoon I'll be gone from Daytona Beach."

The thought of his leaving brought a knot to Kay's throat. Now, that was silly, she tried to tell herself, but it was no use; the knot was there.

"Let's," he said, taking his arm in a tight grip.

It was early in the morning when the Commander III returned to the docks in Daytona Beach. The night was clear now with soft moonlight and there was a peace upon the river and the city.

Ida Campbell offered to take Kay home, but Harrow insisted upon doing so himself.

"I don't know, Earl," Spike Winch remarked cautiously.

"I do," Harrow said, his voice firm.

Spike shrugged.

That disappointment really pleased Kay. For once the rich girl wasn't having her own way about the man she had determined to get. And, furthermore, Kay wanted to hear more from Harrow. His declaration had done strange things to her emotional balance.

Harrow put her in the little car and took his seat beside her. Driving across the bridge, he was silent. So was Kay; she was waiting for him to speak.

As they left the bridge she looked behind and saw a large car following them. She caught her breath and would have spoken, if Harrow had not put his hand gently on her arm.

"Never mind about that," he said. "That's all right."

When the car behind them turned and passed under the next street light Kay caught a glimpse of the driver. She recognized him as one of the two husky men who had come aboard the boat. For some reason, then, Harrow was being attended by an increased bodyguard. Spike Winch wasn't enough. That meant, she supposed, that the danger, whatever it was, was really considerable, for Spike was a pretty formidable watchdog. Kay remembered how he had handled his automatic that day on the fishing trip and recalled his hard-muscled strength, dancing.

Harrow spoke finally: "I told you what I did tonight because I may not have a chance again. Things have developed that need a lot of attention. You probably don't need to be told that. I'll be leaving in a few days now. Had planned to start at once, but Captain Johnson tells me he wants some work done on the boat. I suppose, in a way, it would be better to leave the boat here and go ahead, but I'm not going to do it."

Harrow's voice had hardened. "I came down here for a cruise and a rest and this what I'm going to get. I'd like to see anybody stop me now. . . . But I can't go into all this with you, Kay. The point is, I've had to tell you how I felt about you to clear up whatever misunderstanding there may have been in the matter."

He drew up at Kay's house and the car behind stopped too, some two hundred feet back down the block.

COURT CASES ARE DELAYED HERE TUESDAY

Ayers Bank Trials to be Held Later; Stewart Case is Dismissed

Criminal cases against former employees of the Ayers National Bank set for trial this week were delayed temporarily thru motions filed by the defendants' attorneys in circuit court yesterday and the case against E. R. Stewart charged with larceny was nolle prossed by State's Attorney W. H. Absher, after the first witness was placed on the stand. The trial of Louis P. Hauck, charged with embezzling funds of the City of Jacksonville was continued until Monday, and the case of the People of Illinois versus H. C. Clement was taken out of the call because of the defendant's illness. There will be no more trials by jury in circuit court this week.

Attorneys for Hauck filed a motion yesterday for a bill of particulars, and after this had been filed by State's Attorney Absher a request was made for a few days additional time in which to prepare the defense. Judge L. E. Stone set the trial over until Monday.

Hauck while assistant to the city treasurer is charged with having appropriated $1,549.94 to his own use, between Feb. 8 and May 3 of 1931. He is represented by Attorney Edward Free of Springfield.

Attorneys for Clement produced affidavits and a physician's certificate to show that the defendant is physically unable to appear in court. The court permitted a delay, not fixing a time when the case will be called.

Stewart charged with having knowledge of thefts of corn while he was living as a tenant on the C. E. Williamson farm south of here was dismissed by Judge Walter W. Wright after Prosecutor Absher's motion for nolle was made. Williamson, the first witness placed on the stand, told the jury he did not know whether any corn had been stolen from his crib or not, and following this statement the case was stopped and the jury dismissed.

There will be a docket setting in court this morning at nine o'clock. Petit jurors have been selected for service during the second two weeks of the November term. They are as follows: T. J. Calhoun, Franklin; O. C. Coultas, Lennville; Fred Hagan, Prentice; Clyde Lewis, Prentice; Walter Uhlenk and Harlan Postlewait, Chapin; George Schramm, Waverly; Frank Flynn and Grover Roseker, Murrayville; E. G. Yeck, Ed Rogers and Harvey McClain, Meredosia; Charles Beckham, Concord; Kenneth Schaal, Franklin; W. T. Henry, Nortonville; Charles Decker, Charles Higgins, R. J. Craig, Phillip Gorman, Harry Cully, J. J. Hagan, John Purry, S. J. Carter, Henry Frisch, Clarence York, Clyde Baker, Alfred R. Leake, Justin A. Biggs, Matt Wagner, and Elbert Lair, Jacksonville.

Court orders docketed yesterday were as follows:

People Ex Rel. Edward J. Barrett vs. Auditor of Public Accounts, et al., vs. Murrayville State Bank, a corporation. Bill of complaint, audit of receivership from time of inception to Sept. 17, 1934, filed and ordered not recorded.

E. E. Crabtree, receiver of the Murrayville State Bank vs. Murrayville Farmers Elevator Company. Complaint at law, Affidavit for summary judgment in original suit on file. Proof of service of notice on application for summary judgment in original suit on all defendants, except J. H. Fuller and G. W. Brown. The motion of plaintiff in the above entitled cause for summary judgment in favor of the plaintiff and against all the defendants, except J. H. Fuller and G. W. Brown, pursuant to statute, having been presented, and the court having considered the affidavits filed and counsel having been heard and the court having considered said motion and being fully advised in the premises.

It is ordered that said motion be and the same is granted. Therefore it is considered by the court that the plaintiff do have and recover of and from the defendants, Murrayville Farmers Elevator Co., J. A. Marsh, H. H. Wankel, Joseph F. Worrall, R. D. Mawson, J. E. Thompson and T. P. Langdon, the sum of four thousand one hundred and forty-four dollars and in addition thereof to have and recover of and from the defendant, T. P. Langdon, in addition thereto the sum of sixteen hundred fifty-one and 48/100 dollars as in plaintiffs affidavit alleged, together with his costs and charges in this behalf expended and have execution therefor.

Affidavit for summary judgment on counter-claim of defendant, T. P. Langdon, on file. ORLEANS CLUB HOLDS MEETING AT HULETT HOME

Dr. Blanch Epler is Speaker At Tuesday Session of Group

Mrs. Marcus Hulett was hostess to the members of the Orleans Woman's country club at her home Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Roy Davenport gave two saxophone selections, accompanied by Mrs. Elmer Strawn on the accordion.

Dr. Blanch Epler addressed the club. She told of her experiences as a physician on Roanoke Island and of her experiences among the Southern Mountaineers.

During the social hour, the hostess served refreshments. The next meeting will be held at the home of Miss Florence Cox with Mrs. Ivan Cox as assistant hostess.

Isolated highways in America and their meaning was the subject as presented by Dr. Epler, now in her old home town of Jacksonville, after 23 years in general practice in Kalamazoo, Michigan and 7 years practice of medicine on an isolated island in the Atlantic.

She also passed several summer vacations in medical interest in the isolated mountain region of Kentucky and North Carolina.

In the lines of narrow islands extending from Cape Henry, Va., to Cape Fear, N. C., are found groups of choice Americans, speaking the beautiful English language. In this region momentous events in American took place. Here the Wrights made their successful attempt at flying. Marconi erected his first American radio station. Virginia Dare the first white child in America was born. The first American Protestant baptism made his attempts for Queen Elizabeth for colonization in America.

Though the region of U. S. greatest fishing and coast guard service, it is practically unknown. Dr. Epler's medical service extended for 50 miles and indicated the U. S. medical secret of the men in the five coast guard stations of that stretch of beach.

Mountain People
She also told of her interest in the isolated mountain people, 500,000 of whom have been isolated for over 100 years, over 100,000 square miles of impassable mountain region. Here are tall sinewy men, women of beautiful character, bearing and figure; children brought up to obedience and beautiful manners are likewise our choicest of Americans.

Developing with no schooling, a remarkable breadth of mind, they long for "larning" though no books are found other than they took their guide in speech and character and an occasional Latin or Greek classic brought in by an ancestor of the language. No locks or keys are used on the Hatteras Banks island nor in these mountain regions.

Dr. Epler said that hidden away in our country lanes and town streets were similar choice American characters but they have to be hunted. She said that as the need of such characters, nor our privilege of responsibility for these accepted, just as we are blind to another momentous crisis as to understanding and responsibility, our present emergency meaning.

She said the Federal Emergency Relief work in county and town could not develop toward an ideal place without an understanding and cooperation of those who could do some thinking.

The vigor of the women's clubs, at this moment is needed and may be responsible for a success.

Likewise the library extension plan in the county and the new community unit for human relationship of the farm bureau can through club effort be made factors in the reorganization of thinking in home and school and club.

SCOTT FARMER SUCCUMBS TO HEART ATTACK

Charles D. O'Donnell Dies at Home Near Winchester;
News Notes

Winchester, Dec. 4.—Charles D. O'Donnell, prominent Scott county farmer, aged 61 years, was stricken at 5:30 this evening at his home, five miles south of Winchester, by a heart attack. The deceased was born and reared in Scott county and is the son of the late Dennis and Elizabeth O'Donnell. His late home is located on the new paved road connecting Winchester and Aulsebrook and he figured prominently in the construction of the new route. A list of donors will be published in the Journal and Courier and as soon as a sufficient amount of money is raised the public will be notified and collections will cease.

Anyone wishing to donate to the fund can either mail or bring donations to the Journal-Courier office or hand them to Chief of Police Frank D. Baker.

To Receive Donations For Fund To Add To S. W. Nichols Foundation

The Journal-Courier will receive donations again this year from citizens who desire to contribute to a Christmas fund to amplify the Samuel W. Nichols Foundation.

The Jacksonville newspapers last year raised sufficient funds to provide a Merry Christmas for children who could not be cared for by the Nichols Christmas Fund. The fund can provide for approximately 300 children, but last year more than 700 names were sent in by teachers of the public and parochial schools.

It is expected that more than 700 will have to be provided for again this year and the newspapers are making an appeal to the citizens to assist in raising sufficient funds to provide the poorer children of the city with a merry Christmas.

The fund will be handled by Chief of Police Frank D. Baker, and a committee of school teachers, to be appointed by Superintendent of Schools R. O. Stoops.
